Target Arnhem: Across 6 Bridges is a fun, short wargame perfect for introducing beginners to the hobby, yet subtle enough to hold the attention of veteran gamers. Originally published in the Japanese Magazine Games Journal (vol. 43), this two-player game simulates the entire Market-Garden operation at a regimental level. Each turn represents one day, and each hex is about 7km (4.4 miles) across. One player commands the Allied forces and the other player commands the German forces. The entire operation can be fought in under two hours. In addition to a four-page rulebook and a die, the game includes a full-color map sheet and 88 full-color, mounted, and die-cut 5/8" counters. All that a player need to supply are some tactics to explore.

Multi-Man Publishing (MMP) has acquired the rights to Target Arnhem (A6B) from Games Journal, redeveloped the game, and is distributing it free of charge in order to promote wargaming in general and MMP in particular. MMP produces a wide-range of critically acclaimed wargames, as can be seen by a quick perusal of the catalog accompanying this game. The Advanced Squad Leader series and the various Gamers' series (Standard Combat Series, Tactical Combat Series, Operational Combat Series, Civil War Brigades Series, etc.) are some of the most popular game in the wargaming hobby.
